APPENDIX 1 - ROUGH SLEEPER COUNT DATA	18

1. Introduction

Homelessness in its many forms affects people of all ages across the City of Mandurah and according to local sector data obtained in March 2019 there are over 1600 people vulnerable to, or were already experiencing homelessness in the region (Australian Institute of Health and Welfare, 2017-18).

The aim of the Mandurah Homelessness and Street Present Strategy is to ensure there is “a place for everyone” in our region. This will be achieved by accelerating positive outcomes through collective impact, including strengthening the collaboration between stakeholders and the network of support services across Mandurah.

The strategy represents the combined efforts of local providers and the City of Mandurah to better understand and address homelessness within the region. Consultation with people with lived experience of homelessness formed a core part of the development of this strategy, alongside sector consultation and a review of available data. The Strategy was informed by the Western Australian Alliance to End Homelessness (WAAEH) and the Department of Communities’ 10-year strategy ‘All Paths Lead to Home’, 2020 to 2030. Whilst facilitated by the City of Mandurah, it is acknowledged that the strategy was developed by the community sector, for the community of the region. This shared resolve to create a place for everyone will increase opportunities to work together to improve quality of life.

In September 2018 a reference group was established to provide guidance and strategic support, and sought further consideration of establishing an external Peel Homelessness and Street Present Network interagency group.

In March 2019 the City began hosting and facilitating a core group of service providers from the region who led the research, consultation and collaboration that underpins this plan. In 2020 the City and core group also undertook a targeted rough sleeper count with a number of volunteers, representing agencies and groups across Mandurah. This Street Count provided point-in-time data, useful in developing strategies, understanding advocacy and engaging broadly in community.

2. Understanding Homelessness

2.1. Definitions

Homelessness is experienced when a person does not have a home in which they have shelter, can exercise control over a physical area, can maintain privacy and enjoy social relations and have legal title through tenancy rights or ownership. It includes rough sleeping on the streets, parks, cars, squats, stays in supported accommodation for the homeless, 'couch surfing' (individuals and families staying temporarily with others), living in boarding and rooming houses without private facilities and security of tenure, and heavy reliance on short-term stays in motels, hotels and other forms of temporary lodging (The West Australian Strategy to End Homelessness 2019).

This strategy recognises that homelessness exists in various forms and is defined and experienced in many different ways. For the purpose of developing this plan the Mackenzie and Chamberlain cultural definition of homelessness was used, as adopted by the Commonwealth Advisory Committee on Homelessness (Homelessness Australia, 2001) in 2001. This definition uses three categories for homelessness:

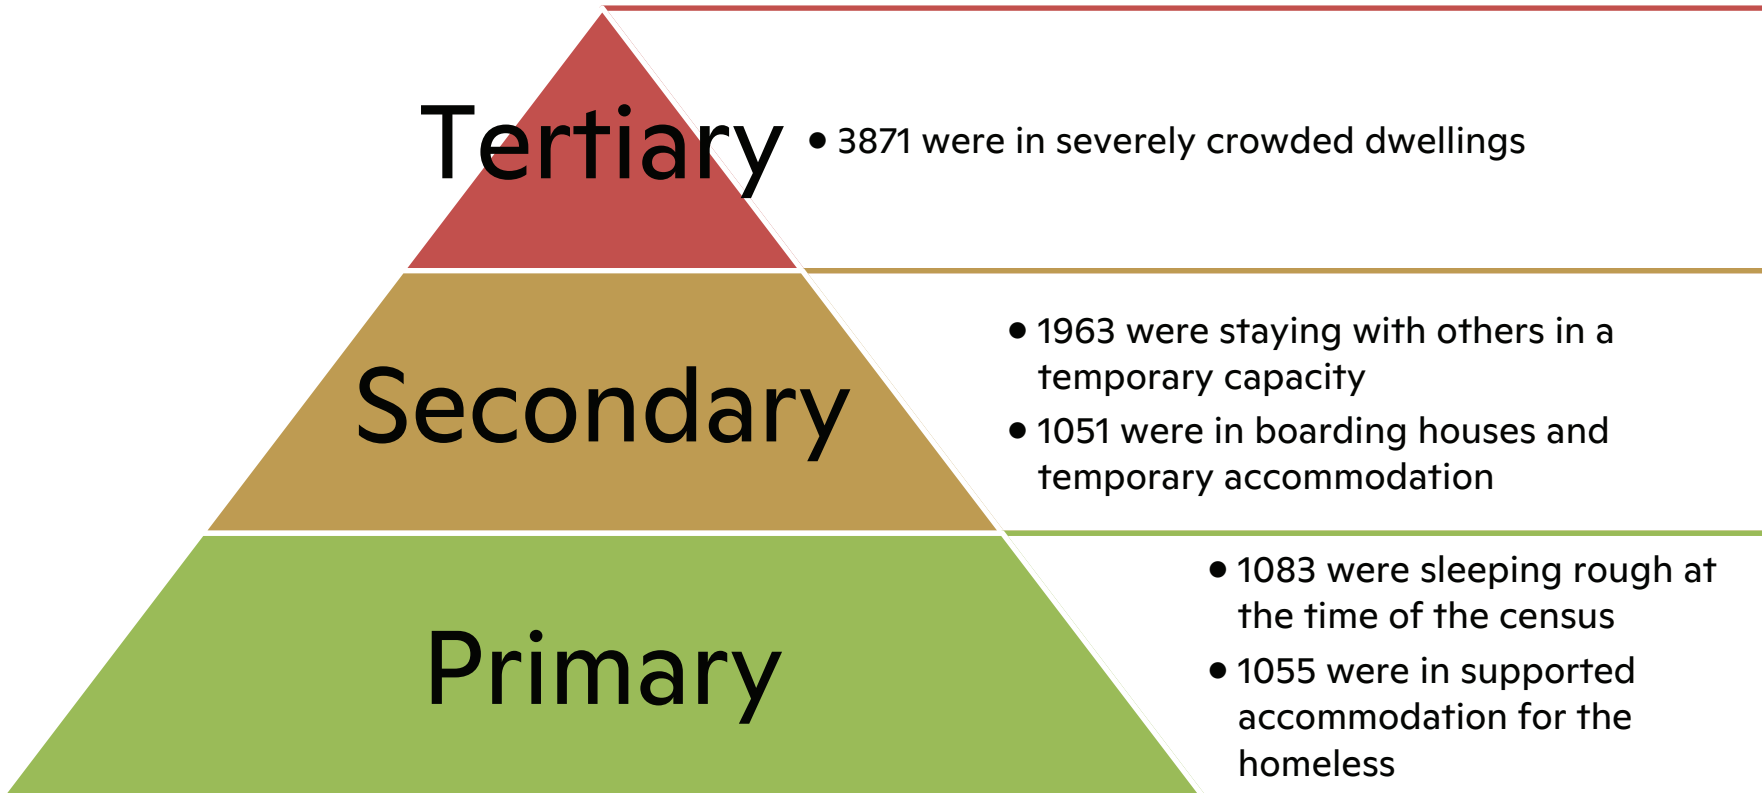

- Primary homelessness is experienced by people without conventional accommodation (e.g. sleeping rough or in improvised dwellings)
- Secondary homelessness is experienced by people who frequently move from one temporary shelter to another (e.g. emergency accommodation, youth refuges, 'couch surfing')
- Tertiary homelessness is experienced by people staying in accommodation that falls below minimum community standards (e.g. boarding houses and caravan parks)

2.2. Western Australian context

Homelessness is a national social issue and continues to present a range of challenges for the whole community of Western Australia. Due to difficulty in accessing this cohort for the purposes of census data collection, figures gathered are assumed to under represent the issue. According to the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) more than 116,000 people were experiencing homelessness in Australia on Census night in 2016, with 9206 people rough sleeping in Western Australia. This is widely considered a point-in-time figure (Homelessness Australia, 2016). In Western Australia, the rate of primary homelessness (i.e. sleeping rough) is higher at 4.4 per 10,000 of the population than in Australia overall (3.5 per 10,000) (Homelessness Australia, 2016). Aboriginal people comprised 29.1% of the homeless population on census night.

However, it is important to note that homelessness is rarely the primary challenge faced by people in this situation. There are many contributing risk factors to homelessness that can include mental illness, domestic and family violence, financial stress, relationship/family breakdown and inadequate or inappropriate dwelling conditions.

People most at risk of homelessness include young people, women and children impacted by family and domestic violence, Aboriginal people, older people and veterans, people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds and persons with a disability.

2.3. Mandurah context

The City of Mandurah has a population of approximately 85,000 which is expected to grow upward of 120,000 people by 2036. Mandurah's ranking has dropped seven points in the state SEIFA index, a measure of socio-economic disadvantage; the lower the score the higher the levels of disadvantage. The following tables provide a comparison of the 2016 score for the local government areas of Mandurah, Kwinana and Rockingham (Australian Bureau of Statistics, 2016).

Local Government Area	SEIFA SCORE (2016)	WA State Ranking
Mandurah (C)	958	52
Kwinana (C)	960	55
Rockingham (C)	986	80

ABS 2016 data indicated that 200 people were experiencing homelessness in Mandurah (according to the ABS definition which includes rough sleeping, overcrowding and insecure tenure). Local data collected in March 2019 suggests up to 70 people are street present at any one time in and around Mandurah's central areas (City of Mandurah, 2019). However, on 17 March 2020 a rough sleeper count was conducted in partnership with the City of Perth. On this night 84 rough sleepers were sighted in a 5km radius of the central business district of Mandurah (Appendix 1). A second count was conducted on 27 October 2020, in this instance 53 rough sleepers were counted in Mandurah (Figure 1: Rough Sleeper Count). This data further demonstrates the significant disparity between ABS data and local knowledge of the significance of this issue (Western Australian Local Government Association, 2020).

Additional local sector data suggests that there are over 1600 people vulnerable to or already experiencing homelessness (Australian Institute of Health and Welfare, 2017-18). The high level of people rough sleeping coupled with the 2019 data collected from the local service sector demonstrates the entrenched nature of homelessness in our community. The graph (above) shows the comparative data from the rough sleeper counts from participating Local Government Areas (Western Australian Local Government Association, 2020).

Mandurah Rangers, local WA Police and day time security patrols strive to treat every individual with dignity and respect, especially given the challenges faced by many vulnerable people. At times a more direct response is required with street present people due to disruptive behavior. This is particularly prevalent in the Mandurah Central Business District area where there is a noticeable street presence of vulnerable people and associated vagrancy. This has reportedly had an impact on local business and tourism-based industry.

3. Our Response

3.1. Collaboration From the Start

Knowing that collaboration is the only way to effectively tackle a complex issue like homelessness, this strategy was born out of a collaborative approach. Since early 2019 a core group of nine agencies was supported by over 90 members and 50 organisations, each playing a role in either responding to requests for information or helping coordinate consultation of people with lived experience of homelessness.

The network established that its core function would be:

“To create a collaborative, overarching framework which will enable the network to increase communication and resource delivery, with a clear focus on the client.”

“The group has assumed the role of working collaboratively to assist people experiencing homelessness and unable to find a regular roof over their head, especially:

- young people who may be intermittently homeless
- street present people
- people displaying anti-social behaviours, especially in the City Centre”

The Core Project Team is made up of services funded specifically to work with people experiencing homelessness in Mandurah and Peel. In addition to this team, the coordination approach involved breaking down the larger network into smaller working groups based on priorities. These working groups focused on the areas of ‘Housing and Accommodation’, ‘Support Systems’, ‘Safety and Security’, ‘Systemic Change’ and ‘Advocacy’.

The local service providers which make up the Core Project Team are those currently providing support to people experiencing homelessness:

3.2. Lived Experience Consultations

A range of 45 narratives from people with lived experience of homelessness was collected with the help of community service providers. With professional support of agencies, this consultation occurred in a way that was both respectful and based on existing relationships.

Engagement with people of all ages took place, each had a unique story highlighting the long researched impacts of homelessness. The discussions brought to light the complexity of contributing factors that can lead to homelessness and the challenges faced by people caught in a cycle of disadvantage. The consultations supported a greater understanding of the compounding psycho-social impact of homelessness when there is a lack of local mental health services and difficulty finding crisis accommodation. At times homelessness can be the result of family dynamics or changing family circumstances; often people with children felt they faced extra pressure, rather than increased support, which frequently results in children being removed from the parents' care.

Compounding the financial, social and health impacts was the reported stigma and judgment faced by other members of the community, often contributing to a heightened sense of shame and helplessness in some instances. The findings of the 45 lived experiences were used as a guide in the development of this strategy.

3.3. What Has Been Done to Date?

The Peel Homelessness and Street Present Network have been active in its attempts to reduce homelessness and have implemented numerous responses to the issue:

1. The establishment of a Core Project Team and four supporting reference groups. Recognising the critical nature of collaboration from the start, the City's role was to facilitate and provide strategic support, rather than to lead.
2. A Homelessness and Street Present Network Group was formed with over 50 agencies represented. This group meets less regularly and is supported strategically by the Core Project Team.
3. A multi-agency Street Present Intervention Team was formed that reviews the individual circumstances of the local street present people.
4. Support for the Peel Community Kitchen to be relocated and significantly upgraded.
5. Endorsement and advocacy of a homeless and street present assertive outreach trial project.
6. Establishment of a Homelessness Shower Service.

The State Government have also delivered a new therapeutic woman's refuge, with a second stage currently under construction in Mandurah. This will provide a vital accommodation option for vulnerable woman and children experiencing family domestic violence.

4. The Strategy

The strategy is informed by the Western Australian Alliance to End Homelessness (WAAEH), the Western Australian Strategy to End Homelessness and the Department of Communities' 10-year strategy on homelessness 'All Paths Lead to Home'.

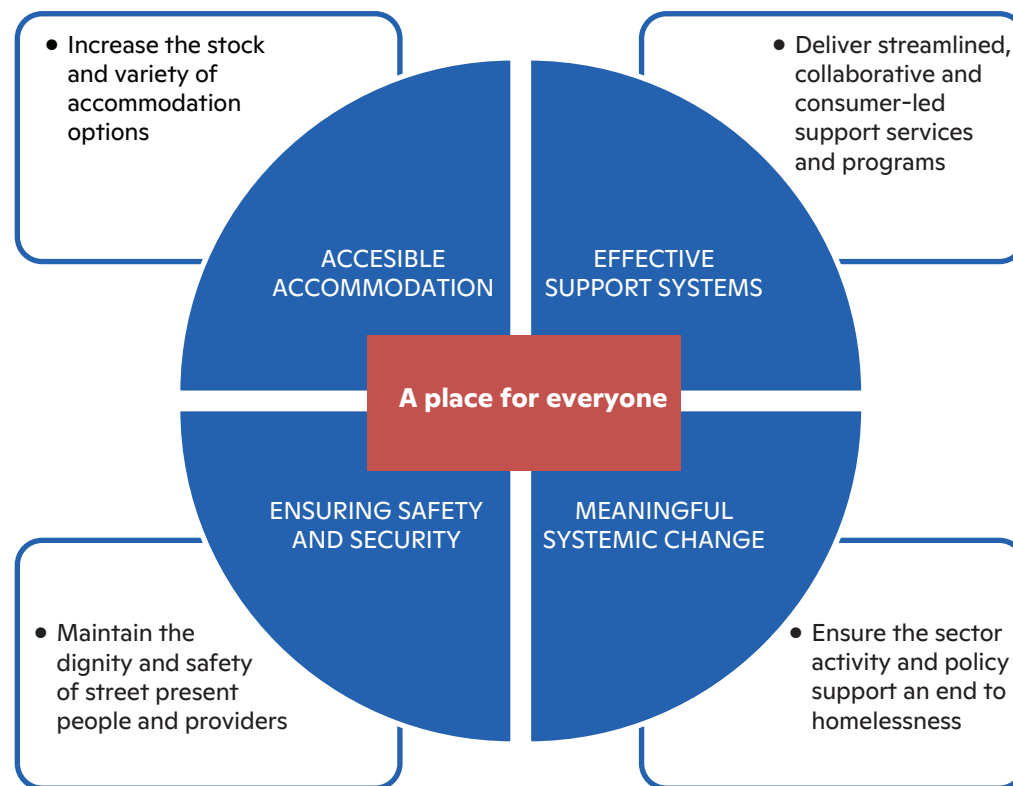

Not unlike the State direction, the strategy identifies the multiple strengths and skillsets which local sector members and organisations possess, calling for collaboration as a means to end homelessness in Mandurah. The co-design process of the 'No Wrong Door' approach was considered in the development of the strategy. This process outlines the importance of including lived experience input from a diverse set of community members experiencing homelessness, as a starting point in the formation of this document.

Acknowledgments

The City of Mandurah acknowledges the Bindjareb people as the Traditional Owners of the lands and waters on which Mandurah is situated and we pay our respect to Elders past, present and emerging.

We appreciate the collaboration and information provided by the Core Working Group and other stakeholders who have participated in the development of this strategy. The Core Project Team have worked above and beyond their existing commitments to develop this community-led strategy to end homelessness in Mandurah. The work completed by this group includes the lived experience stories which helped shape the direction of the strategy and its objectives. The Core Project Team were also integral to the delivery of the rough sleeper count on 17 March 2020, which gave us our first snapshot in 'real time' of the number of the most vulnerable community members who are experiencing homelessness.

The City of Mandurah is grateful for the support of the Peel Homelessness Network and the Core Project Team and the volunteers and services that help people experiencing homelessness in our community.

Special thanks go to the 30 volunteers who undertook the physical work required during the rough sleepers count for their goodwill and commitment.

We welcome the opportunity to collaborate with other local councils and we look forward to increased participation and collaboration to implement this strategic plan. Working together will better help us achieve the goal of ending homelessness in the Mandurah and Peel area.

We would especially like to acknowledge the hard work of the following agencies, who make up the Core Working Group:
